Current Events Interpreted

24,000,000 Didn't Vote

Most of the post mortems after an election make rather dull reading, but one of the perennial "our man would of won if" complaints from the losing camp, reveals an astonishing and provocative fact. This alibi contends that if everyone qualified to vote had voted, the result would have been different. Actually, the number of persons too immersed in slothful indifference to register and cast a vote, is astonishing. There are 73,000,000 people 21 years of age or over in the United States. Counting out nine million unnaturalized or illiterates, that leaves 64,000,000 eligible. Yet the nationwide vote is about 40,000,000. Would the remaining 24,000,000 non-voters have changed the result, or would the division of opinion among them run about the same as among the voters? Probably the latter is true. In any case, it is disturbing to realize there are so many people who don't care enough about the democracy men have died for, to take advantage of their opportunities under it.

In Come the Indigents

As the chill blanket of winter begins to settle over the rest of the nation, California becomes increasingly concerned over the influx of indigents. Police Chief Davis of Los Angeles has again stepped into the picture, only this time he does not plan anything so ambitious a statewide border blockade with his city police. He has put up the barrier only around the city limits. And for the state, he has suggested the idea of making the indigents work, in the manner of "rock pile" gangs, only on something more useful than rock piles. The plain fact is that state border blockades are not permitted by the United States constitution. There will be a fight in our next legislature about it. Perhaps the only possible solution, in the long run, is some federal action that will permit the states to deal with the problem. As it stands now, even the states are quarreling among themselves over the shunting of migrants back and forth.

Nine Men and History

In the sanctum of the supreme court of the United States, where nine elderly, solemn, black-robed gentlemen apply their weighty wisdom to various questions, decisions of historic import are in the process of incubation. Eleven cases involving major New Deal laws are docketed for scrutiny during the present term of the court. Their decisions may determine whether or not an amendment to increase federal powers is proposed. Their decisions may influence the whole course of governmental philosophy in America. The important acts in question are: The national labor relations act, the railway labor act of 1934, the right of the government to finance municipal power plants, the Wheeler-Rayburn public utility act, with its death sentence for certain holding companies, and the Frezier-Lemke farm mortgage act, revamped and repassed after its progenitor has been held unconstitutional.

And Now It's Duck Season

All the shooting you'll hear of a Sunday when motoring past marshes or ponds or lakes this month will be nothing at all to worry about. Duck hunting season opened Nov. 1, and will continue until the last day of the month. Sportsmen believe that the flights of waterfowl along this coast the present season will greatly outnumber the ones of the past several years when the alarming decrease of the duck population prompted drastic measures. These measures included rigid shooting restrictions over the past few seasons, and intensified efforts of the U. S. biological survey to provide nesting, breeding and loafing areas, and the results are beginning to show. Should we cheer for the sportsmen, or sympathize with the poor, defenseless ducks?

Easy Come, Easy Go

When a horse named Dan Bulger came galloping home the winner in the Irish Hospital sweepstakes last week, some $2,160,000 showered out of the skies and into the laps of 34 Americans. Naturally, to those who rode from rags to riches on a cardboard ticket, it was an unexpected windfall, since the odds against winning are tremendous. Somehow these get-rich-quick stories, although many are touching enough, never quite blot out the picture of millions who paid their money and didn't cash in, of the millions who keep on doing it, race after race, and never collect. Then too, the follow-ups on the success stories, if some enterprising journalist would dig them out, would probably be quite tragic chronicles. Investments in quack schemes, squandered thousands, and then the pessimistic outlook on life that having had, and have lost, a lot of money usually leaves. Easy come, easy go.

COUNTY TAX BILL IS OVER 4 MILLIONS

Property owners of Campbell and Santa Clara county will pay a tax bill totalling more than $4,000,539.00 this year, it was revealed today by Roy P. Emercon, county tax collector.

Following more than three and a half months of work in preparing tax bills and covering each parcel and tract of land in Campbell and Santa Clara county which are estimated to number more than 135,000, tax bills were mailed this week to more than 60,000 individual property owners, Emerson declared.

The first installment of the current year's taxes become due and payable on Nov. 1. This installment which includes the total tax on all personal property secured by real estate together with one half of the real property tax, becomes delinquent on Dec. 5, 1936. If not paid before that date, California tax laws require that an 8 per cent penalty be added to the bill of such delinquent taxpayers.

For the convenience of local taxpayers, collections of taxes will be made at Campbell on Tuesday, Nov. 10, 1936, at the American Trust company during banking hours.

No radical changes have been made in the county tax bill this year, the systems perfected last year being continued to effect a saving in both time and money to taxpayers. Under the present system, the original copy of the new tax bill was mailed out and the original tax bill received by taxpayers must be returned to the tax office when paying the 1936 tax levies, it was declared.

"The tax collecting system in Santa Clara county is far less complicated than those generally used throughout various counties of the state," Emerson said today in making the announcement. The system as used last year eliminated much

New P. T. A. In Resolution for More H.S. Units

Campbell Press
Gentlemen:

The following resolutions were ordered sent to you with the object of having them published in your paper:

"Whereas, we, the members of the newly organized Campbell High School Parent-Teachers association,, see that the unfavorable arrangement of the present school buildings are detrimental and dangerous to the welfare of the pupils, and

"Resolved, that the members of the parent-teachers association do hereby wish to go on record as being in favor of taking all necessary steps required for the completion of the remaining units of the high school, and

"Resolved, that the high school board and the Press do all in their power to bring the present condition before the public so that it can be remedied immediately."

Respectfully submitted,
Mrs. F. O. Bohnett, Pres.
Mrs. W. W. Lester, Sec.

GREETS MOTHER

Dr. Cecil Cutting was home from San Francisco Sunday to hear from his mother the latest news of his brother, Windsor, and that "smiling nephew."

AREN'T WE ALL?

CCC POW WOW HERE NOV. 9th

Camp 739, CCC, known as the Almaden CCC, will hold a Pow Wow at the Campbell union grammar school on Sunday, Nov. 8. Starting at 3 p. m., it will be presided over by officials of the camp. Lt. Ray Budwin, camp commander, will call the meeting to order. George Forbes, educational adviser, is in charge of arrangements.

The speakers include visiting representatives of the Monterey district CCC. Dr. D. E. Wiedman, ninth corps educational director, has been invited to address the assembly.

The purpose of the pow wow is to discuss the educational and recreational program for the winter months. Following the conference a sandwich supper will be served and entertainment provided in the auditorium.

Anyone interested in this work is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Bean Feted On 80th Birthday

On Nov. 3. Mrs. H. P. Bean of Williams road celebrated her 80th birthday. Many friends called on that day and presented her with candy, cards, flowers and other gifts.

On Wednesday the Moreland club met with Mrs. McBride on Bluett street, San Jose, and surprised Mrs. Bean with a handkerchief shower and a beautiful birthday cake.

Today Mrs. Fanny Price Webb invited a group of friends to the Bean home for 1 o'clock luncheon in honor of the occasion. The house was decorated with large chrysanthemums, and the luncheon table was adorned with yellow snapdragons and maidenhair fern.

Guests who shared in the pleasant event were Mrs. Ella Lewis, Mrs. Hattie Harriman, Mrs. Edna Jones, Mrs. McBride, Mrs. Ethel Landis, Mrs. Lawrence Hansen, Mrs. Raymond Bishop and Miss Vina Lewis.

Campbell Ford Man to Detroit

P. H. Dunlap, local Ford dealer, left Monday night for Detroit aboard a "dealers' special" train. The Ford men expect to reach their destination tomorrow morning.

At the main plant of the Ford Motor company, the dealers will enjoy a preview of the new cars for 1937, and at the same time they will present Henry Ford with an old wind mill for his "Greenwich Village." The mill was secured in Cape Cod, and bears some historical significance.

Dunlap expects to stay at the plant several days after the two-day dealer conclave, and will probably arrive home a week from today in order to be on hand for the local showing of the 1937 models here next Friday.

School Supplies At Smith's

To Stage "Jan of Windmill Land"

The young people of the Congregational church will give a Dutch play, "Jan of Windmill Land," at the Campbell grammar school auditorium Saturday evening, Nov. 7, at 8 o'clock.

Synopsis reveals that Jan is a fine Dutch boy who clears himself of the charge of theft through the aid of the age-long wisdom of St. Nicholas. His accusers are two Dutch boys who in turn have been placed under the spell of two bad fays. As the above suggests, many interesting situations arise before the good end arrives. Chorus, solo and duet interpret the speaking parts. The first act is mostly concerned with the above plot and also the visit of some English tourists. Dutchee housewives and Lords of Creation come in to do their parts; flower fairies and bulbs assist.

The second act is concerned with the visit of St. Nicholas to the town and the ancient figure of Knecht Rupert with his eight gollywogs.

Marian Jacobson will give a special Dutch dance.

The cast includes Eva Borg as Frau Martendyke, a widow; Lorin Smith, Jan, her boy; Daryl Farnham, Max, his friend; Jack Lowrie and Jack Smith, Mathis and Piet, two bad boys; Lois Bohnett and Alice Modry, Gertrun and Mynn, two school girls; Winfield Archibald, Mynheer Van Oost, burgomaster; Caleb Borg and Glen Du Bois, two retainers; Philip Covey, St. Nicholas; Dennis Bennet, Knecht Rupert, black servant of St. Nicholas; Gollywogs, black boys to assist in the whackings; Billy Wasson, Mrs. John Bull, visitor to Holland; Bertie Lee Farnham, Alice, a daughter; Marilyn Anderson, Beatrice, a daughter; Dutch boys and girls, flower fairies, bulbs, etc.

Chest Returns Coming In Slow, Treas. Reports

Secretary-Treasurer G. E. Farley of the community chest reports a slow turn-in by the workers of several districts. A few of the subscriptions have been turned in by contributors who have always supported this movement.

The local chest being the only relief organization in Campbell, Cambrian, Hamilton, Moreland and San Tomas districts, generous support is urgently solicited.

Of the $1625 budget for relief, library and youth movement, approximately $1000 has been subscribed.

Let all lend a helping hand and put the chest over the top.

FROM WESTWOOD

Miss Muriel Crothers came home from Westwood to spend a part of the week-end with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Crothers of Hamilton [illegible]nue. Miss Crothers reported no snow as yet, but that freezing had begun and all were looking for good skating before the heavy snows.

Guest Day Much Enjoyed by Club Women, Friends

One event that proves to be a red-letter day on the club calendar of the Country Woman's club is guest day, and the observance of that occasion on Monday was one of those very delightful affairs.

Mrs. Worthin Grattan and her very capable assistants, Mrs. H. M. Shadle, Mrs. W. R. Morgan, Mrs. T. M. Smiley, and Miss Lillian Cassidy had decorated the room very attractively with quantities of small chrysanthemums, chiefly in the yellow and bronze colorings. The tea table, at which Mrs. Freeman L. Howes and Mrs. Harry C. Smith poured during the social hour was specially dainty with its lace cloth over pale gold, and a silver bowl holding a bouquet of marigolds of an unusual shade of yellow. A trio of yellow tapers in silver holders burned beside the bowl.

Lovely corsages were presented the honor guests by the hostesses.

Gracious words of welcome were extended by the president, Mrs. Ralph H. Hyde, who then presented Mrs. Lydia Whitman, past president of the club, in whose honor the occasion had also been made a reception. Mrs. Whitman voiced her delight at being back in our lovely valley and her appreciation of the opportunity to greet so many friends.

Mrs. Grattan as chairman greeted the members and guests, and then introduced Miss Bernice Downing of Santa Clara, who in her own inimitable way recounted interesting incidents and delightful events of her recent "Freighter Cruise" or "Vagabond Journey" from San Francisco to Rotterdam and through several of the countries of Europe. The ocean trips lasted five weeks, and in all she spent eight months in seeing and doing, almost as fancy dictated, and not as outlined in any "travel

Clubs to Hear Chester Rowell At Stanford 17th

The Campbell Kiwanis club will join with several other clubs as guests of the Palo Alto club in a 6:30 dinner at Stanford Union on Nov. 17. Herbert Hoover and Ray Lyman Wilbur will be present, and Chester Rowell will be the speaker. This promises to be a real interesting session, and Campbell men are planning to go en masse.

At Tuesday's meeting here reports were given by several committee chairmen, and Ira Abbott announced that arrangements are being made for installation ceremonies for this district to be held at Campbell grammar school Jan. 5.

President Hedegard appointed a committee to investigate the plan of a community Christmas party. Herbert Shadle, Rev. J. H. Bennett, Rev. Edwin Bowling, Earl Townsend and John Paviso are members of the committee.

Prof. Forrest Murdock of San Jose will speak on "Education" at the Tuesday meeting, and Lloyd K. Wood will be chairman.

P.T.A. to Sponsor Barn Dance Tues.

The high school P. T. A. will sponsor a barn dance at the annex Tuesday evening, Nov. 10, beginning at 8 o'clock. The proceeds will be turned over to the Boys' Athletic club, to be administered by Coaches Ralph Noddin and Bert Chappell.

Mrs. M. F. Hughes and Mrs. F. A. Jacobson, ways and means committee members, will be in charge, with members of the executive board assisting. Tickets may be secured from any of the following members:

Mrs. F. O. Bohnett, president; Mrs. Anthony Jurras, vice president; Mrs .W. W. Lester, secretary; Mrs. J. W. Knowles, treasurer, Mrs. S. N. Hedegard, parliamentarian; Mrs. A. W. Wellington, hospitality; Mrs. Ira Grim, Mrs. C. E. Williams, Mrs. J. B. Collin[illegible] membership; Mrs. M. H. Farnh[illegible], publicity.

NOVEMBER 3 ELECTION SEES RECORD VOTE In CAMPBELL

DEMOCRATS WIN; PEOPLE REJECT MOST PROPOSED AMENDMENTS IN TUES. BALLOTING HERE.

Nearly a thousand votes were cast in the three precincts here Tuesday. Comprising approximately 80 per cent of the registered voters, the turn-out was a record-breaker.

Ordinarily heavy on the Republican side, local voters reflected the will of the nation and supported the New Deal ticket to win 470 to 432 for Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Rep.	Precinct	Dem.
135	1	158
135	2	152
162	3	160

In the congressional race Campbell voters backed the winning candidate, giving McGrath a small majority over Alonzo Baker, and the incumbent state assemblyman, C. C. Cottrell, held a comfortable lead over the Democratic candidate Foley, again reflecting the view of the majority.

McGrath	440	Baker	417
Cottrell	465	Foley	342

A refreshing angle of the election was the interest taken in the amendments, of which there were 24. Tabulation reveals that most voters were "good citizens" in a matter too often slighted, as high as 95 per cent voting on "important" measures such as 10 and 22. Only one amendment—No. 4—was carried in the county, but Campbell voters didn't help put it over, downing it 419 to 265. They registered disapproval of all but five proposals: 6, Los Angeles city charter; 15, relief to assessment districts; 16, water districts; 17, computing taxes on unsecured property, and 24, city and county charters.

As a matter of purely local interest the complete tabulation of votes on amendments follows:

Yes	Proposition	No
164	2	402
179	3	526
265	4	419
232	5	257
237	6	235
253	7	383
193	8	376
374	9	409
98	10	490
122	11	479

Varnish Applied by Hand

Varnish, practically as it is known today — except that no thinning agent was employed — was made in the Eleventh century by a monk called Theophilus Presbyter. This varnish was applied hot and smeared on with the fingers. There were, of course, no brushes available in those days.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart
National Press Building Washington, D. C.

Washington—I have been wondering whether the rank and file of the American citizens have been able to piece together the many loose ends of the distressing conditions extant throughout the world. It is to be recognized, of course, that when a man like Dictator Stalin of Russia makes a statement that war in Europe is just ahead, it awakens the peoples of the world with a sudden start. That is the spectacular side. But there is much more about European political conditions than is disclosed in the Stalin declaration.

World Conditions

The thing that students and observers of European affairs can see in conditions abroad, as they view them in the light of our own State Department's information, is that a gigantic battle is on between two schools of thought. On the one hand is communism. On the other hand, and just as firmly entrenched and as deeply determined, is fascism. Followers of these two lines of thought are both literally and figuratively at each other's throat, and the picture when pieced together, can lead to no other conclusion than that which Stalin foresees, namely, war.

I have lately heard some observers make the statement that the Spanish rebellion is the crux of the problem. I cannot agree with that. Spain and her revolution may prove to be the spark that ignites the European powder keg, but Spain and her revolution are just incidents in the developments that came originally from the overthrow of the Czar's government in Russia and the establishment for the first time of a commune of the proletariat in the world.

It was unfortunate for the world and for those people who wanted to promote peace at all times that the Versailles treaty had to take shape as it did. The Versailles treaty subjugated Germany beyond all reason. I think that will be accepted by all save the most violent partisans of the late President Wilson. It seems to me, however, that the Versailles treaty has proved to be the second stage in the chain of circumstances that led to Mussolini in Italy, Hitler in Germany, overthrow of the royalists in Spain, and lately the election of a "people's front" in France.

Any analysis of that chain of circumstances cannot fail to include the effect the Versailles treaty had upon European conditions. In some ways, the effect was direct; in others, it was indirect, and the full import of the treaty provisions were not evident until eight or ten or even twelve years after the four great powers had made that treaty effective and, they believed, effectually disarmed and bottled up Germany.

After many conversations with diplomats, foreign students and Washington government officials, I believe too much importance cannot be attached to the attempt made by the Versailles treaty to break up political jurisdictions. The treaty, it will be remembered, created a vast number of insignificant and rather helpless states in Europe. They were supposed to serve as a buffer between the larger nations and prevent snarling and making faces among those world powers that had engaged in the last war. The effect, it has now been proved, is exactly the opposite.

Throughout Europe, according to the official and unofficial word that I get, there is a new kind of hatred among nations. It is not the hatred that obtained between France and Germany under Kaiser Wilhelm. It is a hatred not between the statesmen of the various countries, but among the rank and file of the people. That is to say, it is a vengeful feeling and when that is understood, it is not difficult to realize how vicious the undercurrent of relations is from Russia on the north to the Straits of Gibraltar, or even into Africa on the south.

Hatred Exists

To bring this condition into today's light, one hardly need look further than the various cabled dispatches from European capitals, each telling a story how the respective governments are watching the Spanish revolution. Again, the Russian Stalin puts the thing into a spectacular relief. If reports can be accredited, and official information indicates that they can be regarded as having a basis of fact, Stalin is ready to lend assistance to the so-called loyalist armies in Spain.

Now the loyalist armies, representing the government that is barely holding on by the skin of its teeth, are wholly communistic. Hence, Stalin's interest.

But the Russian dictator might be regarded as horning into a mess that does not concern his nation, except for another and most important piece of information. That information, not officially confirmed but generally believed, is to the effect that Italy's Mussolini has a finger in the pie on the fascist side of the Spanish revolution. The rebel armies in Spain are fascists. Hence it is quite understandable how the Italian dictator may be mixed up in promoting, even extending military assistance, to the rebel Spaniards. Thus we have definitely a triangle that surrounds the peoples of Europe. Within the boundaries of that triangle are jealousies unparalleled, political propaganda of a sort never before unleashed on the world, and millions upon millions of people who may be classed as unthinking. They are of a type comparable to the lowest grade of American individuals who, while not wholly illiterate, cannot be accredited with the power to reason. They are being led into the very jaws of another war by wholly unscrupulous and unprincipled agitators who are posing as the friend of the common man. They are working on fertile ground.

Repeatedly, I hear questions asked concerning whether the United States is likely to get involved in that bottomless pit of Europe and, a kindred question, whether communism and fascism are gaining in the United States. The answer to the first half of that question must be made in two ways. We are likely to get involved unless some of our government policies are changed. But we can stay out if those policies do undergo revision. Whether we find ourselves embroiled in that horrible mess, depends entirely on the Washington government and the attitude of the Washington government appears entirely upon the attitude of the American people.

We Can Stay Out

And that statement brings me to the most important observation that I have to make in connection with this discussion. It is now a definite fact that communists are spreading their propaganda through the United States in an effort to create a war spirit. It is the beginning of their movement to drag us into another world war and if we get in, it means the end of the American nation, as the land of freedom for us all. Our economic structure, as well as our government, will be destroyed. I have no hesitancy in making such a statement.

After the World war it took us twenty years to recognize what the cost of that war was. I mean the cost of disturbed lives more than I refer to money cost. The depression resulted from that war just as surely as the sun shines, and we are all now getting well fed up with this depression. And so I say on the basis of conclusions given me from countless authoritative sources, we cannot stand another war of the proportions of the World war and retain our government in its present form, our traditions, our institutions. There will be no way of preventing such a breakdown.

As I have said in these columns before, one particular criticism that I have against the Roosevelt administration is its capitulation to Russia. Frankly, I believe Mr. Roosevelt was trapped. I believe he saw too late what the full meaning of his action was when he recognized Russia—that is, recognized his mistake too late unless he believes in the doctrine of the communists. In any event, it is my firm conviction that the recognition of the Soviet opened the door through which now are marching hordes of men and women squinty-eyed, unprincipled in character, unpronounceable names, ruthless in design. They are bringing the propaganda which I mentioned. This is not intended to be a scare story. The evidence of communistic propaganda probably is all about you in your own communities. It is subtle, cleverly handled. Sometimes, it is even very boldly done. For example, in many of the larger cities today, handbills in appearance like those that are used announcing a public sale, are finding their way into the playgrounds of public schools. Allegedly brilliant lecturers are going about the country making what appear to be educational addresses, but containing, in many instances, propaganda argument in support of the communistic theory.

Roosevelt Trapped?

Even some of the big shots in the communistic movement are out in the open speaking or lecturing. Earle Browder, the Communistic candidate for President, is traveling about here and there making flaming speeches.

There are many other types of this propaganda under way. Professor Rexford Guy Tugwell published a text book on government a few years ago and he has succeeded in getting that volume into the special list of books for Delaware schools. It contains declarations definitely opposed to the American form of government.

It is unnecessary to point out more of these things. The point is quite definite and clear. The movement toward communism in this country is proceeding slowly, cautiously, because the communistic leaders recognize American sentiment must be changed slowly, but the slimy head of the snake is coming out of the water and it will be much bolder if we become involved in the European struggle. Communists would make of us American citizens each and every one a communist and would throw us into the world struggle on the side of communism and against fascism.

Two March Side by Side Once All Walked In 75 Years, Much Done Another Milton Needed

Germany and Italy, meaning Hitler and Mussolini, are said to be working together closely. They are to control Austria, and Hitler's share in the control might not please that intensely Catholic country too well. Germany's influence will increase along the Danube. Germany and Italy combining make that possible, with nobody inclined to fight about it.

Arthur Brisbane

In return for recognizing Italian sovereignty in Ethiopia Hitler is to have important Ethiopian concessions.

A million years ago, when our ancestors went out seeking something to eat, preferably some feeble human being easily killed, everybody walked. Now nearly everybody rides. Across George Washington bridge over the Hudson river, opened five years ago, about 100,000,000 human beings have crossed in 31,000,000 automobiles, while fewer than 1,000,000 have crossed on foot. Busses alone carried 11,638,000 over the bridge.

How rapidly progress moves once it starts! Seventy-five years ago, both sides of our country were connected by telegraph for the first time. Now men talk around the world by radio. Seventy-five years ago they only talked across the continent, now they fly the continent and on beyond, across the Pacific ocean.

Those hostile to new ideas might remember that a little more than seventy-five years ago men were beaten for re-election to congress because, as the voters put it, "they were foolish enough to vote money to experiment talking over wires."

They were defeated for willingness to have the government try out Morse's electric telegraph idea.

Berlin reports that German booksellers must sell, and Germans must read, only books that the government thinks they ought to sell and read. The public will be compelled with "loving force" to read what is good for them.

That takes Germany back to the Seventeenth century, when the English government decided that Englishmen must read only what the government thought was good for them.

All books must be submitted and wait for approval before printing. Along came a man named John Milton with his book the Areopagetica, printed by him without anybody's permission, denouncing an infamous law that would control men's minds and freedom of thought. That settled it; the law died.

Somebody will kill it in Germany, in time.

In the Spanish civil war, hostages have been seized, on both sides, including many women, and are held with this threat: "If you kill hostages taken from my side, I'll kill yours."

England and other countries almost tearfully are begging both sides in Spain to exchange hostages instead of murdering them; the British government officially expresses the fear that women "are in danger of wholesale massacre." Nice civilization, is it not?"

Dr. Bakst, young teacher of mathematics at Columbia university, thinks he has a sure formula for winning on horse races; "he tried it and won, 1,000 times, not with money, just mentally."

Anybody can win mentally, they do it constantly at Monte Carlo and elsewhere, but nobody can win money, except accidentally—never in the long run.

A brave truck driver, name unknown, saw a lady with a difficult name, Mrs. Anastasia Adiuszkiewics, hanging from the ledge of a second story in Jersey City. Rushing to help, he caught her in his arms as she fell, then left, wanting no praise.

He makes up for many that do not give their seats to ladies in street cars.

An eighteen-year-old girl, alone and in agony, gave birth to a child; and, according to police, immediately killed it, dropping it from a roof. A jury convicted her of manslaughter, and the judge let her go on probation; she must report once a month to prove that she is behaving. Four jurors that helped convict her told the judge they regretted their verdict.

Every mother knows that the unfortunate girl, after her horrible experience and solitary agony, was at least as nearly insane as any shell-shocked soldier.

"The Man Who·O·O"

Tales and Traditions from American Political History

BY FRANK E. HAGEN AND ELMO SCOTT WATSON

HISTORIC MURDER

ONE hundred and ten years ago a man was murdered and as a direct result of that crime we now have, every four years, national conventions of delegates from every state and territory in the Union to nominate candidates for President and vice-president. Here's how it came about:

In 1826 William Morgan of Batavia, N. Y., published a book which purported to reveal the secrets of Freemasonry. Soon afterwards he disappeared and the Masons were not only accused of having kidnaped him and drowned him in the Niagara river but also of blocking a proper investigation of his disappearance. From western New York, opposition to the Masons spread to other states and several demagogic young politicians, among them Thurlow Weed and William H. Seward of New York and Thaddeus Stevens of Pennsylvania, seized upon the movement to promote their own ambitions.

The result was the organization of the Anti-Masonic party and in September, 1830, the first Anti-Masonic convention, the first national convention of any party, was held in Philadelphia, attended by 95 delegates from ten states. It was decided to hold another convention the next year to nominate candidates for President and vice-president and this meeting was to be composed of as many delegates from each state as there were representatives in both houses of congress.

Accordingly in September, 1831, the convention was held in Baltimore and it nominated for President William Wirt of Maryland, who had been attorney-general in Monroe's cabinet, and for vice-president Amos Ellmaker of New York. In the election of 1832 these candidates won only the electoral vote of Vermont. Later this party was absorbed by the Whigs and lost its identity, except in Pennsylvania where it elected a governor in 1835 and continued as a separate party for a few years.

But during the Anti-Masonic party's short existence it had pointed the way for others to follow in the method of choosing candidates. It gave them the national nominating convention and while convention procedure has since been changed in many ways, from that day to this the fundamental principle upon which it was based has remained unchanged—democratic representation of the party constituency.

KANSAS CAMPAIGNER

THE state of Kansas is in the limelight this year because for the first time in history a nominee of one of the major parties comes from the Sunflower state. Moreover, it has two candidates for the presidency—Gov. Alf. M. Landon heading the Republican ticket and Earl Browder of Wichita, the leader of the Communist party.

This is not the first time, however, that a Kansan has been a nominee. Back in 1884 there was another. He was John Pierce St. John, a native of Indiana, an adventurer in California in the gold rush days, a lawyer in Illinois and a soldier in the Civil war, rising to the rank of lieutenant-colonel of an Illinois volunteer regiment. After the war he moved to Missouri where he practiced law for a time and became noted as a political orator. In 1869 he moved to Kansas where he was to win his greatest renown.

He served in the state senate in 1873-4 but declined re-election and in 1878 was elected governor by the Republican party. Re-elected in 1880, he won the Republican nomination for a third term in 1882 but was defeated in the election.

Always a pronounced enemy of the liquor traffic, St. John was nominated for President on the Prohibition ticket in 1884 and polled a total of 151,809 votes. This was 20,000 more than the vote for Butler, the candidate of the "Greenbackers," so that he was the "runner-up" in the race between Cleveland and Blaine.

During his canvass for the presidency, St. John traveled extensively over the United States making speeches in behalf of the "dry" cause. In fact, during his 14 years of public life he is said to have hung up a record of travel exceeded by few candidates for office. He traveled more than 300,000 miles by rail, during which time he never had an accident nor was sick a day and made a total of 4,000 speeches, missing but four engagements in all that time.

Montreal's Historic Crosses

Many of the historic crosses in Montreal were raised by the pioneer inhabitants to commemorate being spared from the St. Lawrence river's ravages before it finally was brought under control. Founded by the man who erected its first and most famous cross, Paul de Chomedy, le Sieur de Maisonneuve, Montreal is frequently called the "City of Crosses." Maisonneuve's cross was erected almost 300 years ago.

"Yes, you can, damn you, and you will. Let me put that bandage back where it belongs—and you keep it there. Don't talk about eyesight unless you want it back. Where the hell do I come in? What am I getting out of this?" It was a battle between two strong wills, and it was long in the waging. But when Carpy, wiping the sweat from his forehead and, himself almost unstrung, left Denison's side, his patient had ridden out the storm and had promised quiet till the two could think of what might be done, pledging in the interval mutual and absolute secrecy.

Secrecy, however well pledged, grows more difficult to control in proportion to the number of persons pledged.

Carpy swore Sawdy and Lefever to it very easily. McAlpin and Ben Page were warned that if the story leaked out, it might become unpleasant for both. As for Bob Scott, no one was ever known to worm a secret out of him; Barney, of course, dared not talk.

Yet it will easily be understood that too many people had the story; and only the continual efforts of Dr. Carpy in silencing, through threats of what might happen to them, one or another of the conspirators kept it under cover.

Jane, after the usual storm with her father, who knew what she was doing, rode next morning into town to make her visit to the hospital.

Denison was a poor actor. In his endeavor to make Jane feel there had been nothing to upset him, he was over solicitous. Carpy did better; but he was compelled to admit that Denison had not been doing quite so well—since Jane could see that for herself.

Her father continued taciturn and aloof. Jane knew she was defying him by continuing to visit Denison, yet being of much the same tenacious will as her father himself, she reckoned little of it.

But her visits and ministrations to the injured neighbor of Gunlock Ranch became so frequent, and she herself was so wholly indifferent to comment, that the situation became food for local gossip. Here was Van Tambel a deadly enemy of Denison's, with his daughter openly showing a very special interest in Denison's condition at the hospital—carrying to him delicacies and spending with him half her time in town.

Things were at this pass when one day Van Tambel told his daughter he must go to Medicine Bend on some bank business. Jane knew that he was not able to make the trip—Carpy had told her more than once that the old man's life hung by a thread. She pleaded with her father, found out what the business was, and offered to go in his stead.

She took the morning train for Medicine Bend, secured the further time on his notes at the bank, spent the night at the Mountain House, and took the afternoon train west for Sleepy Cat.

The Pullman cars were crowded. Jane was forced to find a seat in a day coach. Here she placed her handbag in the seat beside her, bought a magazine, and resigned herself to a long afternoon and evening.

Two men had taken the seat directly behind her. Jane resumed her reading until in the conversation between the two men her attention was attracted by catching the name of Bill Denison.

Her curiosity once aroused, it was easy to follow the drift of their talk. Presently she heard mention of her father's name. Aroused now to keen interest, Jane was torn between the feeling that she ought not to listen and the impulse that she must.

"Of course, nobody can prove it," were the words she heard. "I didn't say they could. That old bird knows too well how to cover his tracks. But everybody knows how he deviled Denison's brother when he lived there—tried to buy him out, then scare him out, and then smoke him out. The old devil has been crazy ever since he owned Gunlock to get hold of that little Spring Ranch. Why? Account of the water. It's the biggest spring in the hills. Now that he's back from the hospital, the first thing he thinks of is to get hold of that spring."

Jane listened with bated breath.

"Why, it's common talk in Sleepy Cat," the narrator went on, "that he paid Barney Rebstock to set Bill's ranch house afire and came damned near burning Bill up in it."

Her heart stopped beating as she heard the dreadful recital, delivered as calmly as the merest bit of current gossip would be discussed on a street corner.

"According to what I hear," continued the narrator, "Sawdy and some of Bill's friends choked the story out of Barney. Sawdy got cut up in the fracas with him—Sawdy was laid up in the hospital for a month. Barney's a mean devil with a knife."

The train was pulling into Sleepy Cat. Jane, rousing herself from a stupor, her breath choking her, her heart ready to burst with every beat, staggered to her feet, dazed, and supporting herself along the aisle with her hands alternately on the backs of the seats, stepped blindly down to the platform.

Bull Page, who was in with the team and buckboard to take her home, reached for her handbag. "No, Bull," Jane said quietly. "I'm not going out tonight."

"Not going out?"

"I'm staying in town."

"Stayin' in town?" stammered Bull, vastly surprised.

"Drive me to the hotel," Jane said wearily. "I'll take a room there. You drive home and come back for me tomorrow afternoon."

It was ten o'clock. Assigned to a room, Jane freshened herself after the long, dusty car ride, bathed her face and temples again and again in cold water, and tried to collect her throbbing thoughts.

It all seemed like a hideous dream. Surely it could be shaken off; surely men could not be so fiendish as to plot fire and so horrible a death as would follow to sleeping men.

Her father! She shuddered. This thought was most horrible of all—incredible—and yet . .

Of one thing she felt certain: if it were true, she could no longer live under the same roof with him, and the terrifying duty of learning the revolting truth from his own lips confronted her.

And her lover—Bill, blinded Bill—what now of him? Could she ever face him again? What would he say? What would he do?

He knew the truth. No doubt remained in her mind on that point. No need now to ask why he seemed worried and changed. Was he only waiting, trying to decide how to tell her he could not marry her—that her father had blinded him—that they must part?

She threw open her window and kneeling before it, looked out upon the silent, far-stretching desert with its myriad of heavenly lights. The cool air cleared her head. But what could loosen the deadly grief and shame that clutched at her pounding heart?

"Let Me Put That Bandage Back Where It Belongs."

When Dr. Carpy walked into his office from the dining room after breakfast next morning, he saw Jane Van Tambel standing before the window, looking out.

"Why, Jane!" he exclaimed. "What brings you here so early?"

She looked around at him in silence. The doctor walked over to her and laid his hands on her shoulders. "Jane," he asked, "what has happened, girl?"

The grief in her sunken eyes was too apparent.

"Oh, doctor!" The exclamation came like a burst of suffering long pent. "I know everything."

He saw the fat was flatly in the fire. Indeed he had long had only a faint hope of keeping the facts from Jane. His real hope had been that she might not hear the truth till he could save Denison's eyes and thus cushion the horrid shock that the facts must bring to an innocent sufferer.

She had thrown her arms on the table in front of her. Her head sank between them.

Dr. Carpy rose, walked around to the other side, lifted her head and, standing beside her, supported it in his arms. "Jane," he said slowly, looking down into her pitiful eyes, "from what you tell me, I see that you have heard loose stories floating around."

"You, too, have heard them, Doctor. Why, oh, why didn't you tell me?"

"Jane!" exclaimed the doctor, driven from his last stronghold of reserve by the poignancy of her grief. "How the hell could I tell you a story involving those it did in such an affair? Actually, nobody knows just what the facts are. Now we must get started right. First you tell me all you heard. Then I'll tell you all I've heard—is that fair?"

Brokenly, and pausing at intervals to control her voice, Jane gave him the train story.

Carpy had bowed his head.

"Well," he commented as she looked soberly up, "that's not far from what I've been told myself. But, Jane, I'm not a bit sure we have the facts in these stories. They all depend on the word of one of the worst characters in this country. Barney Rebstock wouldn't hesitate at anything low down in the whole range of crime—anybody in town will tell you that. He's not only an ex-convict but the biggest liar in this whole country."

"Doctor," she said solemnly, "does Bill know all that you and I know?"

"Jane," he answered in like, "Bill knows all that you and I know."

"Oh, I knew it. I knew it. To think that poor I should have brought this horror into his life!"

"Jane, that's not so. This might all have happened if you never had seen this country."

"I want you to do one last favor for me, Doctor. Will you?" asked Jane.

"What is it, Jane?"

"I want you to say to Bill that I freely release him from his promise of marriage; that I beg him to forgive me all I have innocently caused him to suffer—and that I will leave here forever—"

"Jane!" exclaimed her listener.

She raised her hand, "I've not finished yet."

"Go on!" he snapped, bluntly.

"My father has made me his heir to Gunlock ranch; he has no other heir. This morning I will make my will and bequeath whatever I inherit from my father to William Denison, to atone as far as I can for the wrongs my father has done him."

"Well?" remarked Carpy coldly.

"That is all."

"And that is what you want me to tell Bill?"

"That, Doctor, is what I want Bill to know. Oh, if I had another to do it for me, dear Doctor, I wouldn't put it on you."

Carpy rose to his feet.

"Jane, you're sending me on a fool's errand. But seeing I'm nothing but an old fool, I expect I'm just the man for the job. I can tell you now what he'll say as well as if I'd seen him and given him your message. But I know, of course, that wouldn't satisfy you. So I'll go—and go now.

"Now promise," he repeated, in parting, "you will stay right here in this office till I get back."

But she was ill prepared for what she saw when the office door was opened half an hour later and Dr. Carpy pushed Denison ahead of him into the office. Bill's eyes were bandaged. He groped a little with his hands, while the doctor guided him to a chair.

"Here he is, Jane," announced Carpy bluntly. "He can speak for himself."

She had not an instant to wait. No sooner did Denison feel himself seated in a chair than he held out his arms and said, apparently not with deep feeling, not with pained emotion, but in the most commonplace, every-day, matter-of-fact manner: "Where's my girl? Come here!"

The old doctor watched Jane run timidly to Denison's side. "Bill!" she exclaimed brokenly. "Here I am!"

"What's all this talk I hear about your quitting me, Jane?" he asked unsteadily.

"Bill, I thought you ought at least to have a—"

"Well, I've had my chance, haven't I? And this is my answer. Till death us do part! Nothing less, nothing else goes! Is that plain, girlie? I gave you a chance the other day to quit me—what was your answer?"

CHAPTER XII

JANE did not go home that afternoon. She sent Bull and the buckboard back with instructions not to come in for her until she sent word. She wrote a brief note to her father, merely saying that she had attended to his business and would be home in a few days. Van Tambel, in an impatient rage, sent Bull back with an order to Jane to come home at once.

The harsh message made less impression on his daughter than he had intended; but it did bring back the answer that she would be out soon.

When the buckboard next day drew up at the ranchhouse door, Jane alighted with a fast-beating heart.

Fortunately, when she got home, her father was out in the hills. Her welcome came from Quong; it sort of broke the ice of the home-coming. But she went to her room, got out her two old suitcases, dusted them off, laid them on her bed and, stripping the hooks of her closet and opening the drawers of her dresser, began almost furiously to pack.

While she was at this, she heard the heavy uneven steps of her father in the living room, and the next minute his huge bulk darkened the open doorway of her bedroom.

"Bill, I Thought You Ought at Least to Have a—"

"Hello!" he snapped.

She turned. "Hello, Father," she responded simply.

"What are you doing?"

"Packing."

"What f'r?"

"Preparing to go into town."

"What you goin' in town agin f'r?"

"I've got a job in town, and I'm going there to work at it."

"What kind of a job?" he snorted.

"I'm going to study nursing at the hospital."

"What the hell you goin' to do that f'r?"

"Because things have been done from here that make this place hateful to me. I couldn't stand it here any longer."

"What things you talkin' about?"

She looked at him steadily. "I'm talking about burning Bill Denison's ranch house."

"What's that got to do with your quitting home?"

"Everything. Everybody's talking about that fire. Barney Rebstock has told that you paid him for setting fire to a neighbor's ranch house with men sleeping in it."

"Why, that fellow's the worst —— liar in Sleepy Cat. Nobody believes anything he says."

"I can tell you everybody believes it," she said, trembling.

"Do you believe it?"

"Father, I am forced to unless you can convince me you had nothing to do with it. This wretch has had a pocketful of money."

Van Tambel regarded her with perfect poise. "Why, I did give him a little money. I'll say I've been sorry for him. I know he hates Bill Denison—a good many folks in this country's got no use for that—"

"Stop!" cried Jane. "Don't say anything against Bill Denison. He saved my life!"

"—that damned, dirty, ornery rustler and thief—"

Jane's eyes blazed. She stamped her foot. "Don't you dare!" she cried. "What you're saying about him is what every one in this country says about you."

"Yes? There's some damned mean people in this country," thundered her father. "Just look out for yourself, my lady. I don't know any more about that fire than you do. If Barney Rebstock wanted to get even with Denison, that's his business, not mine. You shut your trap."

"That's not all."

"More lies, eh?"

"McCrossen has told in town that you once tried to get him to set the house on fire and he refused to do it."

"He lies! He did do it! I gave him five hundred dollars to do it. He agreed to do it and took the money to do it. If he hired Barney Rebstock to start the fire that's his lookout! I left you here to watch things, and McCrossen has been running off my steers ever since I went to the hospital. He knows I know it. He knows I'm going to get after him. And I will," he shouted with a frightful oath. "Now look here! I'll tell you where you get off. You're not going a step to town! I know your scheme; you're going to live with that man Denison—"

"Father!"

IT'S ALL OVER NOW

Elections are through, now, and the nation is ready to settle down once more to sane and ordered life.

Most everyone knew it anyway, but for those who did not, let it be understood that much of the regrettable emotionalism of the campaign, with all its "scares," its dire predictions, and its half truths about our social and economic problems, was stirred up, on both sides, for the sole purpose of winning the election. America is not going to crack up.

It is unfortunate that there must be all this hysteria about presidential campaigns. It is too bad that democracy should fall to its lowest ebb at election time, reverting to emotion rather than intellectual analysis and calm appraisal of facts. But it always has been so, and perhaps so long as human nature remains what it is, the hysteria is inevitable. In any case, if this is one of the inherent shortcomings of democracy, it is not enough to make democracy any less desirable when compared to any other system you might name.

Today the important thing is that our many involved and bewildering problems still remain before us, crying for orderly solution. The election was not a goal in itself, and its result has not removed the problems. And what you and your neighbors think about them will determine, eventually, the solutions to be applied. We must tackle them with renewed vigor, putting them above any lingering resentment that a minority inevitably feels toward the majority's choice for president.

This is no time to be looking backward. Let's add our weight to the great push forward that will some day bring this nation to a steady, lasting prosperity beyond anything we have heretofore known.

REMEMBER WHEN.....?

Harking back to the "good old days," do you remember when?

The milk-man drove up to the curb and rang his bell and you went out with the family pitcher—

The baker came by, blowing his bugle, and you went out for a loaf of bread—

The butter and egg man drove in from the farm and rang the back door bell to inquire about your supply—

It was Friday because the horn of the fish peddler echoed up and down the block—

And Sunday when nobody came.

Give us back the good old days? All right, then—

Turn in the straight eight for whatever they will allow you on the old gray mare.

Fire the board of health if you're going to buy your milk out of a tin can in a street cart. Don't expect too much bread for a dime if the baker brings it to your house a loaf at a time.

Turn off the electric refrigerator and buy an ice-box. Candle your eggs and test your butter. And don't look for oysters on the half-shell for your Sunday dinner.

On second thought—can you bring back the good old days?

There is an indispensable necessity about most of the methods of production and distribution and exchange and business process that have been developed. California, in particular, has learned by bitter experience the absolute necessity of general cooperative organization in production, in marketing and in distribution through retail channels.

Peddling is a thing of the past. Retailing is a business science.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

On the work of the schools, more than on any other factor in our national life, rests the future of American democracy.

All the congresses and courts, all the presidents and statesmen, all the panaceas and politicians, have less to do with it than the teachers in the schoolrooms, where the mind and character of youth is shaped.

American Education week begins next Monday. For six brief days, those of us who hustle on through the year all too unaware of this molding of the future, will have an opportunity to become aware, to visit the schools and see and hear of their progress.

This nationwide observance is, by the way, a California creation. It was born in 1921, a year after California had shown the value of stimulating public interest with our first Public Schools week, which we still observe each spring. Last year, records show, more than six million adult citizens visited the nation's schools during education week.

No observance is more significant, particularly in these times when youth must be equipped to cope with individual, social, and governmental problems which daily grow complex and baffling. And if ever the eternal problems are solved, it will be only because our schools have made better citizens of future generations than we ourselves have been.

Visit your school next week! After seeing all the hope and enthusiasm of the youngsters and all that's being done for and with them, you'll come away with reawakened faith in the future of America, and, like as not, with new faith in yourself as well.

ARMISTICE DAY

Men in khaki will march again — not grimly off to war, but through the streets smilingly, observing the anniversary of a day 18 years ago when peace came to a war weary world.

Next Wednesday is Armistice day.

At exactly the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of 1918, it was, that khaki clad officers, standing in the muddy, war-scarred fields of France beside buns that were raining shells on the fleeing enemy, almost as one man, gave the command, "Cease firing!"

It was over. The war to end wars had ended!

Jubilation came even to those war weary men in the trenches. It mounted into a wave of feverish joy that swept 'round the world. And it echoed again when the boys came marching triumphantly home. To almost every American, then, it was a full-throated cry of victory for us and for peace.

But was it victory? Not for the mothers and wives and families of the 37,568 young men who had been killed in action, of the 12,942 who had died of their wounds, and of the 182,474 who had come home maimed.

Today we know the World war was not a war to end wars. We have read of bombs and bullets and bloodshed in Ethiopia, in China, in Spain. And at this very moment Europe is poised again upon the brink of another plunge into mass madness.

When the soldiers parade next Wednesday, and the bands play and the people cheer, let it be a tribute to peace, not war. Let it be an expression of America's determination, at all costs save actual invasion, to have no part in the catastrophe mankind awaits—the second World war.

THOSE FUTURISTIC AUTOS

Already some of the new 1937 ultra-ultra super-streamlined motoring creations are appearing on the streets, the auto shows are coming, and the public is bursting with curiosity and is ready to be amazed at what the new this or that will look like this year.

You can never tell these days when someone will come out with a model so futuristic it's almost impossible to tell which end is the front, and looking altogether like a cross between the Einstein theory and the Century of Progress exposition.

But seriously, nothing quite so well symbolizes the spirit of American industry as these changes in automobile design. They reflect the youthful quality, the pioneering attitude that is forever searching for something new and better, and is willing to try that something when it is found. Out of this attitude, all progress is born.

This year auto sales are expected to smash more records, and if you're looking for visible assurance of returning prosperity, the abundance of new cars on the streets is one evidence to reassure you whenever you step out of doors. Only last week the registrar of motor vehicles reported California's auto registration for the first nine months of 1936 has climbed 8.59 per cent above that of a year ago. Which means that, excluding trucks, there are 2,097,864 vehicles traversing our highways.

Only one state, the twice-as-populous New York, has slightly more autos than California, and California alone has more than France and Germany combined, more than the entire United British Kingdom, and more in one county (Los Angeles) than any nation except the United States.

That is quite astonishing. Almost as astonishing as some of those new models that will be causing all the excitement for the next few weeks in this most auto conscious state of an auto-conscious nation.

IF—

Probably the most ghastly parade in history was witnessed last week by residents of San Jose. Every available ambulance, hearse and smashed auto was lined up for Safety day demonstration.

Which reminds us:

If you're planning to do any breakneck speed driving over the week-end—

If you're not going to bother, for a while, about fixing some defect in your lights or brakes—

If you're planning to get somewhere in a hurry despite speed cops, red lights, and the rights of other motorists—

If you've come to the conclusion that there is no use to look because there's hardly ever a train coming at grade crossings—

If you plan to have a few drinks and then drive your car because sure, you're all right—

If you're planning to do any of these things or take any of these attitudes over the week-end, phone in or drop around to the editor's office and leave your name and address before you start out.

It will save us the job of getting your name from the morgue for our obituary column.

PEACE COMES TO TOWN

Now that the retail war on Main street is over ,for a time, at least—this hottest of all California ballot fights, waged over the chain store tax referendum—it is possible to comment on the matter without being suspected of blind prejudice.

If there has been a lot of grief, there has also come one good result from this public controversy. It has been a liberal education for the people in the vitally important economic function of retailing in California.

Most of us didn't realize, for example, that wike-awake, progressive and aggressive independent merchants had gone ahead so swiftly in the science of efficient buying and marketing.

Sunday School Class Party At Meth. Church

Two Sunday school classes of the Methodist church enjoyed a Hallowe'en party at the church parlors Friday evening, appropriate games furnishing much pleasure.

The members of the classes are Raymond McVea, Marvin McCorkle, Floyd Golliday, Elver Griswold, Donald Lantz, Donald Airs, Billy Jensen, Irvin McVea, Milo Benner, James Myers, Clarence and Grady McCorkle, Billy Wilson, Norman Hiatt, Neal Kennedy, Tommy Nichols, Claude Grizzle, Barbara and Gloria Broadbent, Dorothy Penhall, Edith Green, Evelyn Seaburn, Carol Lantz, Mabel Allen, Carol Ann Van Arsdel, Dorothy Keesling, Barbara Jensen, Carolyn Anderson and Laura Griswold.

Correspondence Society Is New Wrinkle At State

A San Jose State college chapter of the International Students society, a correspondence club with foreign countries, is being formed under the direction of Raymond Wallace, state senior.

Members are given names of correspondents in foreign countries and establish connections with thousands of students in over 75 countries. Correspondence at present is possible in English, French, German, and Spanish, with a possibility that other languages will be added shortly.

When the membership reaches 25, a charter will be issued by the home office of the society located in Vancouver, Wash.

Collegers Asked For Peppy Yells

A chance for legitimate and organized hollering, a golden opportunity, has come to San Jose State college students.

Jerry Girdner, newly-appointed yell leader, has made an appeal to all students for new and original fight yells, yells that will whip Sparta's athletic teams into fighting frensies calculated to do no good for opponents of San Jose State teams.

The result of Girdner's appeal is a contest open to all students which, Girdner believes, will produce the proper type of school yell.

The contest closed Friday at 4 o'clock.

Back from Visit With Son In East

Mrs. T. A. Cutting arrived home Saturday after spending a month with her son, Dr. Windsor Cutting, and family, in Baltimore, Md. Dr. Cutting is very happy in his laboratory work at Johns Hopkins hospital, where he is doing research work. This large hospital now covers 12 blocks with its setting of buildings.

Mrs. Cutting reports the six-months-old grandson as a very fine growing youngster who has a winning smile for all.

Spartans to Sail For Honolulu In 3 Weeks—Maybe

San Jose, Nov. 5—San Jose State's football players were eyeing maritime strike developments with anxious eyes here today.

The Spartans are slated to sail for Honolulu within three weeks, and the squad is worried that labor troubles may cause the trip to be cancelled for lack of transportation facilities.

The locals must meet Humboldt State, Redlands, and Tempe Teachers of Arizona before sailing to take on the Kamehameha alumni in Honolulu.

The team leaves tomorrow morning for Eureka to play Humboldt.

May Grant Speech Arts Credentials At San Jose State

Plans to grant speech arts majors credentials in speech correction are now being made at San Jose State college.

According to William McCoard, instructor in the speech department, speech credentials would enable the student to receive his secondary credential in speech from the state college instead of attending a university for an additional year.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

"What proportion of the consumer's dollar finds its way back to the farmer producer?"

Apropos of current discussion of increased living costs, the United States Department of Agriculture brings to light some new and exceedingly interesting data in reply to that age-old query.

During 1935, the federal department reports, farmers received 66 per cent of the retail price of eggs (the highest producer-return of the year on the consumer's dollar); 59 per cent of the retail price of pork; 57 per cent of the retail price of chickens.

On other products, the farmer's percentage of the consumer's dollar was considerably less, dropping to 14 per cent of the retail price of canned tomatoes—the lowest producer-return of a score of staple products.

A pound of beef which cost the city housewife 29 cents returned only 13½ cents to the farmer; a pound of prunes which brought 11 cents, retail, brought but 3½ cents to the prune grower, and a dozen oranges, selling to the consumer for 31 cents, returned less than 9 cents to the producer.

Processors, transportation agencies and distributors — together with processing taxes — accounted for the difference between consumer prices and farmer returns.

A comparison of 1935 with 1913 revealed that although farmers received about the same prices in both years, retail prices were materially higher during 1935. The federal department pointed out, however, that methods of processing and distributing underwent considerable change during this period—significant changes including increased packaging of foods and a tendency for processors to do more of the work formerly done at home.

Delving deeper into the problem, the federal department made a survey of 58 foods—inquiring into consumer expenditures for such foods, margins and prices to farmers.

On this phase of the survey, it reports as follows:

"The average city workingman's family, during 1935, spent $331 for these 58 foods, compared with $264 for the same quantity in 1933.

"Farmers, during 1935, received $138 of the retail price of these foods, compared with $92 in 1933, exclusive of rental and benefit payments.

"The margin was $193 in 1935, including about $11 for processing taxes, compared with $172 in 1933, which included about $2 for processing taxes."

The city worker's expenditure for the 58 foods included in the survey, it was estimated, represented about three-fourths of his total outlay for all foods.

To California farmers—far removed from their markets—transportation costs represent an exceedingly large proportion of the margin between farm prices and retail prices.

California agriculture, due to the heavy production of "luxury products," fruits and other perishables, must also make allowance for refrigeration costs, special packaging and processing charges which take a large percentage of the consumer's dollar.

But to offset these extra costs, California has perhaps the most effective distribution system in the United States, with cooperative marketing organizations which have greatly increased the farmer's bargaining power in world markets.

Although there is still far too great a gap between consumer prices and farmer returns, California agriculture is probably in better position to drive a good bargain than the farmers of almost any other area.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

By DON MARTIN

A very closely contested grid battle was witnessed Monday when the local team clashed with Fremont. Donald Karnagel intercepted a pass and ran 55 yards for a touchdown to make Campbell's only score of the game. Fremont piled up three touchdowns and one successful conversion to make the final score 19 to 6.

Campbell will meet Los Gatos there tomorrow afternoon. The Campbell boys are out to win this one, and plenty of action is anticipated.

HOCKEY TEAMS TO MEET LOS GATOS

Four of the school girls' hockey teams meet Los Gatos there on Wednesday afternoon. The captains of the teams are: Golds, Jeanette Collins; Blues, Theresa Stasi; Red Flannels, Margaret Tanner, and Red Victors, Dorothy Ruch.

VISIT PLANITARIUM

One hundred students accompanied Miss Boesch and Mr. Chappell on a visit to the Rosicrucian planitarium in San Jose last Friday. The movements of the solar system were explained in a lecture by Mr. Laffety.

JAPANESE CLUB ADOPTS CONSTITUTION

The Japanese club adopted a constitution and set of by-laws at the organization's meeting last Friday. This growing club now boasts 31 members.

INITIATE "GREEN HANDS"

Nineteen "green hands" were initiated into the Future Farmers of America Tuesday. The degree was conferred by Frank Lovoi, president, and other local officers. Mr. York advises the local chapter of the organization.

Those initiated were Frank Alvernaz, David Belick, Joe Benevento, Robert Bogner, Eddie Carvello, Ray Dickerson, Merrill Fisher, Lewis Haller, Charlie Hamilton, Harold Janic, Vincent Leo, Ernest Macchi, Hollis Phillips, Nick Pisano, Roy Shaw, Elvert Weeks, Louis Bengiveno and Warren Scoppotone.

BOURBONS LEAD IN MOCK ELECTION

The phrase should be, "As Campbell High School Goes, So Goes the Nation," and the Literary Digest would have been more accurate if it had taken its "straw vote" at the local school.

The results of the mock election held Tuesday followed the trend of the nation closely. President Roosevelt received 157 of the 215 votes cast. Governor Landon received 57, while Norman Thomas received one. McGrath led Baker nearly 3 to 1.

The "election" was conducted in the history and social studies classes of Miss Reader and Miss Nielsen.

LIGHTWEIGHTS VICTORS OVER LOS GATOS

The lightweight basketeers continued their triumphant march toward the county athletic league title here Friday evening. The 110's walked over Los Gatos with an 18 to 8 score, while the 120's trounced the Wildcats 30 to 13. Those on the 110 squad who scored were Charles Silcott, 5; Al Uclujama, 8, and Paul Borg, 5. Point men for the 120's were Mitchell Lobrovich, 10; George Kurasaki, 8; John Kawachi, 7, and Bob Shannon, Elwin Meeks and Bert Robinson.

The 120's are leading contenders for the county league title and the 110s' are tied with Mt. View for the title at the present time. Campbell teams will travel to Gilroy for an important league clash tomorrow evening.

GIRLS' LEAGUE TO HOLD CARD PARTY

The Girls' league will hold a card party at the annex tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Refreshments will be provided and prizes offered. Admission is 35 cents.

The following committees are in charge:

Advertising—Florence Calcatera, Lois Starr, Carol Payne, Luana Smeed, Emily Louis; arrangement—Ardus Hoerler, Ruth Hocking, Ione Gardner, Betty Lester; refreshments—Marion Morton, Lois Bohnett, Pauline Barbano, Dorothy Ruch, Margaret Tanner; checking and punching—Elvera Guida, Margaret Fredericks, Martha Boyd, Jewell Abbott, Jeanette Abbott, Geraldine Jurras; prizes—Betty Grim, Emily Bohnett, Verna Coonradt, Eva Seko, Frances Miller; decoration—June Porter, Helen Payne, Ruth James; tickets—Annice Slaught, Ione Gardner.

FROM MONTANA

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Munson of Decker, Mont., arrived recently for a visit through the holiday season with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Winingar of South Central avenue. Mrs. Winingar hopes to persuade suade her brother that this is a more desirable place to live, and will show them the attractive spots in this coast county section.

Welfare Work Reported Tues. At P.T.A. Meet

The grammar school P. T. A. met Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Ray Wood, presiding.

The school nurse, Mrs. Short, gave a very interesting report on the welfare work being done in the school.

A clothing drive is being conducted for the benefit of the needy children. Anyone having children's clothing they wish to donate may send it to the school by any of the school children.

The by-laws were presented and accepted, and Mrs. F. A. Jacobson, who is making arrangements for the card party to be given Friday, Nov. 13, was also appointed chairman of the study group.

INDIGESTION DISTRESS NOW QUICKLY RELIEVED WITH WILLIAMS S. L. K.

Famous New Formula Has Helped Thousands Suffering from Stomach, Kidney and Liver Disorders

HOW long have you been suffering with sour, weak stomach, belching up foul gas and half-digested food? Is your tongue coated—your breath offensive?

Do you have to get up several times every night with your kidneys—losing needed rest, causing you to drag around listlessly all day?

How long since your bowels have moved naturally? Have you grown to depend on harsh purgatives, laxatives, physics?

Yes, of course you've tried medicine after medicine. You've probably taken treatment after treatment for years, but you've never tried WILLIAMS S.L.K. FORMULA.

The Prescription of a Famous Army Doctor

This preparation was originated during the World War by an army doctor and, improved in line with modern scientific advances, is available now to sufferers in and near here at Shadle's Drug Store. It's bringing glorious health to many by its tonic action on the stomach, overcoming nausea, indigestion, gas and bloat. It flushes poisons from kidneys by its diuretic action and stimulates liver action to furnish the stomach with needed bile. Gives your bowels a good cleansing and is a valuable general tonic for the body.

Had Suffered for Years

Only those who have been relieved of many years of suffering can fully appreciate the renewed joy of living that comes with restored health. The following is one of the countless expressions of gratitude for Williams S.L.K. Formula:

"I had been in a run-down condition for several years and then I contracted influenza which greatly aggravated my condition. My stomach was so upset that I could eat nothing but liquids. Any solid food caused acute distress. I was constantly worn out, weak and tired. Soon after starting to take WILLIAMS S.L.K. FORMULA I could notice its building-up effect and I was able to eat almost anything. I am regaining my strength and feel better than I have for some years. WILLIAMS S.L.K. has done wonders for me."—Mrs. A. L. Northrup, 387 East Jerome St., San Jose, California.

New Water Saves Hatchery

Mount Shasta. — A mysterious added flow of water in Spring Creek, first noted two weeks ago by E. V. Cassell, superintendent of the state fish hatchery near here, is reported to have continued without diminution and is believed to be a new permanent source of supply. The added flow is expected to assure the continuance of the plant, claimed to be the largest trout rearing institution in the world, just when steps were being taken to abandon the hatchery because of inability to obtain sufficient water.

Boulder Dam To Be Floodlighted

Washington.—Boulder Dam will be made a night time spectacle through floodlighting effects, according to plans announced by the Reclamation Bureau. With conduits already in place in the dam itself, the bureau said a program for installing fixtures would be started immediately and completed next March, when the entire face of the dam and canyon wall outlets will be flooded with light.

Seek Table Mountain Gold

Jamestown.—A group of men headed by John S. Bradley has obtained a ten-year lease on a large tract southwest of here and is preparing to drive a tunnel to tap a virgin stretch of the ancient river channel under Table Mountain. The property adjoins the If I Can mine, which embraces a part of the same channel, and from which much gold was taken out years ago.

Plan Nine-Mile Model Road

Sacramento.—Plans for one of the world's model highways, to be constructed over the old Altamont route between Livermore and Tracy were announced by the State Chamber of Commerce highway committee. The project will be about nine miles in length, eliminating more than a mile from the old routing. The new road is expected to carry about 150,000 cars daily. Work will start on or before January 1.

Bridge Falls With Trucks

Red Bluff.—The old Sacramento River Bridge here collapsed beneath the weight of two passing trucks, plunging a steel span, the trucks and drivers thirty-six feet to the water. Both drivers were saved, but were injured. Next day a 40-foot remnant of the span gave way without warning, crushing to death a 27-year-old highway maintenance worker.

Money Allotted California Works

Washington. — Grants to seven California projects have been approved by the Public Works Administration. They are: Bakersfield, school improvement, $145,800; Cedarville, school, $13,500; Porterville, fire house, $1,570; Beverly Hills, waterworks, $4,185; Oakland, school improvements, $27,000 San Mateo, sewerage project, $19,898; Needles, school improvement, $10,215.

Fire Destroys Old Mine Town

Nevada City. — Fire destroyed most of the old mining town of Forest City, 40 miles northeast of here, with damage estimated at $50,000. Fourteen buildings, including the Belmont Hotel, landmark of the mining boom days, were burned. Volunteer firemen using an ancient hand cart and buckets battled vainly until forest service crews came to aid them.

Forest Fires Worst In History

Sacramento.—Losses from forest and field fires this year are at least eight times as great as for 1935, State Forester M. B. Pratt estimated. He calculates the damage thus far easily totals $1,500,000, as compared with but $200,000 last year. "This year," he said, "unquestionably will be recorded as the worst year in history in losses attributable to field and forest fires."

Fire Interrupts Sunday Sermon

Porterville.—Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the roof and rear of the $75,000 First Congregational Church here, abruptly ending the pastor's morning sermon as the congregation of several hundred persons calmly filed out.

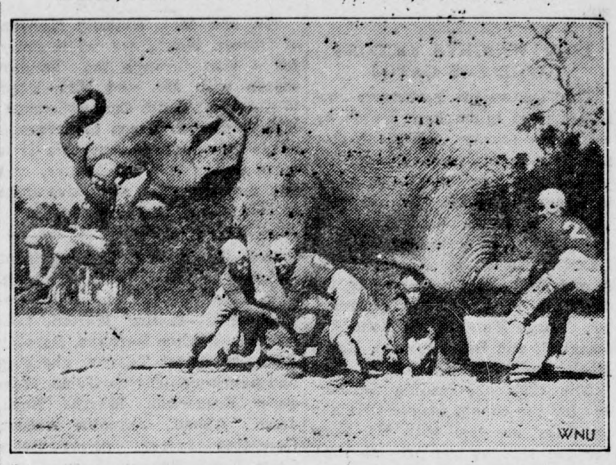
83-Year-Old Man To San Quentin

San Quentin.—One of the oldest men ever to be registered at San Quentin Prison has started serving a sentence here. He is Joseph Ross, 83-year-old Yuba County resident, who was convicted of improper conduct toward a 5-year-old girl.

State Quarantines Eggs

Los Angeles.—Forty 30-pound cans of frozen eggs were placed under quarantine here by the Attorney-General's office in an attempt to rid Los Angeles of a great quantity of "decomposed" eggs which are being canned and sold to bakeries and other food manufacturers. The complaint filed by the State asserted that the quarantined eggs consisted of "filthy, decomposed and putrid animal and vegetable substance" and were unfit for human consumption.

AW, GO TACKLE AN ELEPHANT!



The Loyola Lions are going to be in condition when they meet Texas Tech on Armistice Day. Coach Tom Lieb and some of his football stars recently visited the Zoological Park in Los Angeles, and the boys had a practice period with a playful elephant. Here they are trying to down Anna May, who tips the scales at a mere four tons.

Citrus Competition Predicted

Competition between cheap and plentiful Florida and Texas grapefruit and California navel oranges was predicted for this winter by T. H. Powell, general sales manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange. In grapefruit California-Arizona has 9406 cars, about equal to last year's crop, while Florida estimates 41,250 cars, a 43 per cent increase, and Texas 16,825 cars, a 146 per cent increase, he said. In navels the California-Arizona crop is estimated at around 33,000 cars, while Florida's estimate calls for 52,500 cars.

Celery Shipping Starts

Shipping of celery has started from the Lodi delta district at Terminous with growers and shippers predicting one of the biggest shipping seasons in history. The tentative figure set is 3,800 cars, which is more than 1,600 in excess of last year's total. There are 9,800 acres devoted to celery in the delta west of Lodi, an increase of about 1,800 acres over last year. Crop conditions are said to be excellent.

Apply For Central Valley's Water

Application will be made for 185,000 acre feet of water under the Central Valley's water plan by the Wasco-Shafter district, it was announced following a meeting of the committee there. The committee reported that the district needed four acre feet of water to irrigate properly and keep up the water level. It is getting one and a half feet now and needs two and a half acre feet from the Central Valley's system.

Wins Milk Output Trophy

J. W. Taylor of Visalia, just re-elected president of the Tulare County Co-operative Company Cow Testing Association, has been awarded the dairy perpetual production trophy. Taylor has the highest production cow in the association on two-time milking. His herd averaged 467.4 pounds a cow, eclipsing the previous record of 441 pounds set by the Western Dairy of Tipton in 1931.

To Combat Agitators

Protection of labor used in citrus orchards of Redlands during the winter season has been pledged by leading growers of the Redlands and Highland districts. Leaders stated they have many well-founded reports that agitators plan to come into this district as soon as the navel season starts.

State Big Celery Producer

California produces annually about 7,000 carloads of celery, most of which is shipped to out-of-state markets. In addition, all local markets are supplied, and considerable quantities are shipped to the mid-Pacific islands. In 1935 the California celery crop was valued at $5,319,000 by the federal-state crop reporting service.

Prune Trees Blossom Again

Peculiarities of the weather in the Burrell district near Los Gatos may give prune ranchers an extra crop of prunes this year. C. E. Schmitt, S. Saulocich, G. Easton and other orchardists report that their prune trees are blossoming for a second time and expect a second crop of prunes, if the weather holds right.

Reforestation Successful

The forest service is preparing thirty acres of brush land near McBride Springs, Siskiyou County, for planting next Spring. One hundred and thirty acres already have been made ready. The reforestation work completed last Spring shows 90 per cent growth.

Oklahoma Source of Cotton Pickers

Oklahoma has contributed ten cotton pickers to one from other states of the many who have come to the Tulare district this season to pick the record cotton crop, on the basis of former postoffice addresses.

$500,000 Land Deal

A $500,000 land deal was announced by the Stockton Harbor Industrial Company. The purchase embraces 900 acres on Rough and Ready Island and sixty-five acres across the San Joaquin River from that point.

Tulare Orange Harvest Starts

Harvesting of central California navel oranges has started, with picking going on in the Exeter district and other sections of Tulare County. Considerable fruit meets the 8-to-1 test but lacks color.

Farm Meeting Dates Set

Arrangements have been completed for holding the 69th California Fruit Growers and Farmers Convention in Bakersfield December 14 and 15. The convention is held under the auspices of the State department of agriculture, which is completing details of the program.

Big Tulare Cotton Payroll

Wtih the cotton picking season nearing its close in Tulare County, the pay roll for the entire season is expected to total about $998,000.

BANDING BIRDS TO SELECT BREEDERS

Plan Good When Trapnests Are Not Used.

By J. C. Taylor, Extension Poultryman, New Jersey College of Agriculture. WNU Service.

Poultrymen eager to improve the laying ability of their flocks without the use of trapnests can do so by following a system of banding, commonly known as the red, white and blue system.

The present accepted theory of the inheritance of egg production, as developed by Dr. F. A. Hays of the Massachusetts State College is based on early maturity, non-broodiness, intensity or rate of production and persistency of long-time production. Poultrymen who trapnest their pullets can readily select from the records the birds that possess these important factors.

When trapnests are not used, it is possible to select birds with the requirements of good breeders by a system of leg banding during the first laying year. When pullets are housed in the fall, those that show evidence of laying by having a bright red comb, width between the pubic bones and softness in the abdomen should be banded with a red celluloid leg band. Date of hatch should be known so that the early maturing birds can be identified.

Intensity or rate of production can be identified later, usually in January and February, by banding with a white band all pullets that show the loss of yellow color in beaks and shanks. Persistency can be identified with a blue band. Birds showing continual production in late August and September of next year by the absence of any molting are persistent layers.

During the spring and summer, any birds that go broody should be banded with a black band. Next fall, any poultryman who followed the system of banding described can readily identify the best producers and birds suitable for further consideration as breeders, selecting those birds with red, white and blue bands. Such birds will possess early maturity, intensity and persistency of production and non-broodiness.

Find Chickens Do Well on Barley Hogs Refuse

Scabby barley, which hogs usually will not eat, may be safely fed to chickens. It gives about the same results in the hen's ration as normal barley, a two-year experiment at the National Agricultural Research Center of the United States Department of Agriculture shows.

Rations containing 30 and 38 per cent of scabby barley were compared in feeding trials with rations having the same quantity of corn or of normal barley. Hens on scabby barley laid just as many eggs and maintained their weight as well as those on the other two diets. The only noticeable difference was that birds fed the ration containing corn ate 10 to 13 per cent less feed for each egg laid.

When barley replaces yellow corn in the ration it is best to supply vitamin A by including either alfalfa-leaf meal or cod-liver oil. Barley contains little of this vitamin, if any.

Scab is a fungus disease which affects the quality of barley grain and reduces the yield. It is usually carried over from the previous year on corn stalks and small grain stubble.

Water Is Important

In the proper care of poultry drinking water is very important. Too often this item is neglected. There are apt to be insufficient water fountains for all the birds or the water is stale. Sometimes the birds roost on the drinking fountains and foul them very badly. The birds can not develop their best any more than we can do our best work when we are thirsty, asserts a writer in the Indiana Farmer's Guide. The one thing to remember about the drinking fountains is that they should be placed on cinders or screen so that the chickens can not pick up the coccidia that may be present in the moist soil.

Limestone Grit Desirable

A ration of corn, middlings, milk and salt will produce good results if chicks are allowed to run out into the sunshine in the summertime. Such a ration is too low in calcium if the chicks are brooded inside. Several trials have shown that the late chicks can be raised from baby chicks to maturity on the simple ration above if they can run out in a gravel yard. Inside chicks require more mineral.

Must Keep Pens Clean

If poultry has had a disease and has recovered the pens should be considered as infested with the germs. They must be cleaned properly before any new birds can be put into them with safety. The most satisfactory way of doing this is to cleanse the chicken yard thoroughly making sure that all residue has been removed. Then cover all the damp places with unslacked lime.

Trade Balance for Nine Months Is Unfavorable—Mrs. "Wally" Simpson Gets Divorce—Goering Launches Nazi Economic Plan.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

EXPORTS of manufactured goods and raw materials exceeded imports into the United States during September by more than four million dollars, according to a report released by Secretary of Commerce Roper. But the flow the other way was so strong during the previous three months that the country suffered an unfavorable balance of trade during the first nine months of the year amounting to $33,136,000. This is in contrast with a favorable balance of $66,496,000 in the corresponding period of 1935.

Secretary Roper

Roper minimized the situation, declaring that heavy exports of raw cotton, tobacco and automobiles would probably bring the trade balance more into line with previous years. Pressed for further explanation Roper insisted that "our government as such does not compete with other governments in the selling of goods," and this was the province of private business. On reciprocal trade agreements he was mum.

"We'd like to end the year with a favorable trade balance, naturally," he said, "but we are going through a period of study and readjustment in world trade."

In fact, Roper found the increase in import trade to be "encouraging." He said that it showed our industries were buying raw materials abroad for expansion of their production in this country. Heavy increases in wheat and meats resulted from the drouth, according to Roper, rather than from the killing of six million pigs and non-raising of grain under the AAA.

UNCLE SAM'S nephews and nieces now number 128,429,000, according to the estimate of Director William L. Austin of the bureau of census. The new figure, as of July 1, represented an increase of 908,000 or 0.71 per cent, since July 1, 1935. It was based on the number of births and deaths during the year ending June 30, 1936, and the excess of immigration over emigration.

Births exceeded deaths by 899,955 and the net immigration was 3,044, according to the data taken by Austin. The population figure on the basis of the 1930 census was 122,775,046, and the biggest annual increase since then was 1,022,000, for the year ending July 1, 1931.

The bureau of agricultural economics also has been doing some population estimating. It says the back to the farm movement of the depression years has halted and that the farm population remained practically stationary during 1935, being 31,809,000 at the end of that year. This figure, the bureau says, was only slightly greater than in 1920 and "somewhat less" than in 1910.

PROCEEDINGS lasting nineteen minutes in the court of assizes at Ipswich, England, sufficed to give marital freedom to Mrs. "Wally" Simpson. Justice Sir Anthony Hawke heard neatly arranged evidence of the infidelity of Ernest Simpson, who was not represented, and gruffly gave a decree nisi to the attractive American woman who has been and is the close friend of King Edward VIII. For six months she will be on probation, technically chaperoned at all times, and if her behavior satisfies the king's proctor she will be unqualifiedly free April 2 to marry again. Whether or not her new husband, if she takes one, will be King Edward is a question that only time and the two persons most directly concerned can determine.

Mrs. Simpson.

Mrs. Simpson returned from Ipswich to her London residence on Cumberland terrace, Regents park, and there told interviewers that she was angered and humiliated by the international sensation her divorce has caused. She said she might go abroad for a time but that she would never return to the United States because of "all the nasty things" said of her here.

The Week, a radical London weekly, was the first English newspaper to carry an open reference to Mrs. Simpson's friendship with King Edward. The article was at the same time a denunciation of the American press for giving the story such prominence and of the British press for suppressing it entirely. It also made it clear that there would be widespread opposition to a marriage between Edward and "Wally." Papers from Paris and elsewhere outside the United Kingdom have been in great demand in London, but of course the vast majority of the English people know nothing about the affair.

SPURRED to quick action by the new accord between Germany and Italy, Leon Blum's popular front cabinet approved a large increase in France's military air force, already reputed to be one of the most powerful in the world. To modernize and build up the aerial squadrons the government will spend $230,000,000 at once. It was reported, too, that the cabinet decided to ask parliament to vote extraordinary funds for the fortification of the northern frontier because of Belgium's reversion to a policy of armed neutrality.

BENITO MUSSOLINI rattled his sword again on the occasion of the fourteenth anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome. "The Italian people," he proclaimed, "today are ready and determined to defend as never before—with all their force right up to the last drop of blood—victory and empire."

As for Fascism, he said, "When it finds obstacles in its path, it throws itself against them and burns its bridges behind it."

NOT to be outdone in martial gestures by other nations, Japan trotted out her entire navy for review by Emperor Hirohito. It was the greatest fleet ever brought together in Asiatic waters, comprising 108 warships aggregating nearly 700,000 tons and manned by 40,000 men. Large numbers of aircraft also took part in the evolution in Osaka bay.

GEN. HERMANN WILHELM GOERING, German minister of air and now the director of the Nazi four-year economic scheme to make the reich independent of the rest of the world in raw materials, launched his program at a great Nazi rally in Berlin. "We shall hack finger after finger off the foreign hand clutching at Germany's throat within the next four years," he declared.

Gen. Goering

Outlining his plans, Goering said no German had starved, nor would starve. The high seas fishing fleet will be increased, he asserted, so the people can eat fish when meat is not available. Whale fishing will be developed for the margarine it can produce, he promised.

Goering urged all Germans to follow the example of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler who, he said, eats neither meat nor butter. The audience yelled with delight when the robust Goering told them he had lost 22 pounds by eating less butter.

Germany would prefer the old system of international exchange of wares, but this now is impossible in a mad world, so Germany will build her factories, produce her own synthetic rubber and her own substitutes for cotton and other materials for which she now must spend millions of dollars yearly, the general declared.

MANY American travelers join the English in mourning the death of Sir Edgar Britten, commander of the great liner Queen Mary and commodore of the Cunard-White Star lines. He was stricken with paralysis in Southampton and died within a few hours. Sir Edgar was sixty-two years old and first went to sea as a lad of eighteen in sailing ships. He was knighted by King George V in 1934.

EIGHT armored cars escorted by armed private guards and state police, carried a fortune of $25,000,000 from the estate of the late Col. E. H. R. Green in South Dartmouth, Mass., to the First National bank of Boston.

The fortune, which consists of the famous coin collection, valued at 5 millions; the stamp collection, valued at 3½ millions; a large amount of cash and securities, and a quantity of uncut diamonds, has been under constant guard at the Green home since his death.

BEFORE taking a recess of two weeks the United States Supreme court announced that it would review and hand down a decision at this term upon the Wagner labor relations act. Many lawyers believe this law will be held unconstitutional, for in the Guffey coal act decision the Supreme court held that the relationship between employers and employees was local and beyond the power of congressional regulation.

SECRETARY OF LABOR FRANCES PERKINS announced that the third national conference on labor legislation, designed to stimulate the raising of work standards through federal and state co-operative efforts, will be called into session in Washington on November 9, and will last three days.

JUST about everything necessary to a general European war is now ready. At this distance it seems that Josef Stalin, dictator of Soviet Russia, will be the man to fire the starting pistol and he is reported to be convinced that another great conflict is unavoidable. The nations of the continent are lining up as Communist or Fascist, either in the constitution of their governments or in their active sympathies. The immediate occasion for their disputes is the civil war in Spain. Nearly all the continental governments and that of Great Britain joined in an agreement of nonintervention, but that pact is about played out. Russia, accusing Portugal, Germany and Italy of aiding the Fascist Spanish rebels, has denounced the agreement and declared she reserves freedom to help the Madrid government; the accused nations deny the Soviet charges, and the nonintervention committee voted that Italy and Portugal were not guilty, the accusations either not being proved or referring to what happened before the international agreement went into effect. Italian countercharges, detailing 20 alleged acts of Russian aid to Spanish Socialists were laid before the committee for action.

Portugal severed diplomatic relations with the Madrid government, and the representatives of the two countries were recalled. Dr. Armindo Monteiro, Portuguese foreign minister, followed up this action by sending to Lord Plymouth, British chairman of the nonintervention committee, a long document accusing Russia of having planned and brought about the Spanish civil war. He named the Russian diplomats, agitators and soldiers who, he charged, were directing the operations. He alleged that Moscow sought to start a revolution in Portugal and thus provide a base for attacking General Franco's insurgent forces in the rear.

Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy have buried their differences for the time being and reached an agreement on a united policy. This was outlined in a communique published after Italian Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano had conferred with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. In the first place Hitler and Mussolini inform the world that they intend to recognize the insurgent government headed by General Franco as the legitimate regime in Spain, but they promise to respect the terms of the nonintervention agreement.

Other important declarations of policy by the two states are:

1. Co operation to protect the peace of Europe and "the holy riches of European civilization" and family life.

2. Endorsement of a conference to rewrite the Locarno pact guaranteeing European borders, but only in the west. This implied that neither would agree to Soviet Russia's presence at the meeting.

3. Co-operation for the rehabilitation of the Danubian countries.

In one clause of the agreement Germany recognizes Italy's sovereignty over Ethiopia.

POPULAIRE, the organ of Premier Leon Blum's Socialist party, alleges that a shipment of submachine guns from the United States has been added to the secret armaments of the Croux de Feu in preparation for a civil war in France. The Croix de Feu, a Fascist organization headed by Col. Francois de la Rocque, was dissolved recently by the government and was succeeded by the new Social party.

Populaire, referring to the submachine guns, said these "terrible weapons used by American gangsters" arrived from America through the port of Havre and through Holland. The paper added that the weapons are being planted in caches in Normandie and elsewhere in the north of France. Furthermore, according to Populaire, great quantities of tear gas bombs and tear gas pistols are arriving from Germany for the use of the Fascists.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI, talking at Bologna, said that Italy's "olive branch grows out of an immense forest of 8,000,000 bayonets"; and next day at Imola he told 70,000 listeners that he hoped for long periods of peace, but not for "eternal peace, which is absurd and impossible."

"The Italian people, which gave its blood for the empire, is ready for any other trial when the crucial hour approaches," the Fascist chief shouted. "In order to make peace—just as to make love—it is necessary that there be two."

BELGIAN Fascists, known as Rexists and led by Leon Degrelle, clashed with the police in Brussels and Degrelle was jailed for a night. He said the motive of his demonstration was to show that ex-soldiers were backing the Rexists, and he announced that he would carry out his threatened "march on Brussels" with 150,000 followers and overthrow the government.

SETTING a new world's long distance train speed record, the Burlington railway's streamlined steel Denver Zephyr made a nonstop run from Chicago to Denver in 12 hours 12 minutes and 27 seconds. The distance is 1,017 miles, so the average speed was 83.4 miles an hour. After crossing the Colorado border the train hit its top speed of 116 miles an hour, which was maintained for one mile.

Wives, Know Yourselves!—

Accurate Analysis Will Do Much to Overcome Difficulty in Wedded Life

SPEAKING on the question of trial marriages, a well known writer said, "There should be no need for trial when two people know their own abilities and have measured themselves accurately. Two people who understand themselves will never, I believe, have any difficulty living happily together after marriage."

That is a new slant on the question of success in marriage, supplements a woman writer of national fame. Not "Know thy husband" — or "wife," but "know thyself!"

And, come to think of it, isn't most of the discontent and dissatisfaction in marriage traceable to ideas of ourselves—that may be misconceptions, no less than our illusions about the other person?

How many women's dissatisfaction with their husband has as its source the thought of all they gave up to marry him, all they "might have had" if they had married a certain other man?

How many women's discontent with the role of wife and mother springs from the thought of how much more fascinating pastimes they might have had if they had followed that career?

How many girl's impossible expectations of a fulltime lover and Prince Charming originates in an exaggerated notion of their own devastating beauty and charm?

If all discontented wives would look deeply unto themselves, measure themselves, stop fooling themselves, many might discover that the other man they might have married is a self-nurtured illusion; that the career of their dreams is not a soft snap and a joy forever; but a grueling, exhausting job which might have worn them out if they had qualified for it, which they probably would have been unable to do; that they themselves are neither devastating beauties nor always charming, but women who are frequently disappointing and difficult to live with. They might discover and admit to themselves that they are greatly in debt to their husbands for many things that make life easier and better and more worthwhile—that they would not get along so well without them.

Then they might think more of doing their part of trying to make those husbands happy. And that effort on the part of one must inevitably go a long way toward a mutually happy and successful marriage.

The Greatest Man

THE greatest man is he who chooses the right with the most invincible resolution; who resists the sorest temptation from within and without; who bears the heaviest burdens cheerfully; who is calmest in storms, and most fearless under menaces and frowns, whose reliance on truth, and virtue, and God, is most unfaltering. —William Ellery Channing.

A man may be wrecked as is a ship. Conscience is an anchor. Terrible it is, but true, that like the anchor conscience may be carried away.

Our Lessons

When one has learned his lessons he may roam the fields and float on the river at his own sweet will; but so long as he is at his desk he must be deaf to the invitations of the sky and the woods. —Hamilton W. Mabie.

of the congestion in the tax office during the collection period.

$4,539,827 TOTAL

Incidental to the mailing of tax bills, Emerson revealed that the total taxes charged to property owners throughout Santa Clara county totals $4,539,827.72 this year. This amount includes assessments for county governmental purposes and the city tax levies for the cities of San Jose, Alviso, Morgan Hill, Sunnyvale and Willow Glen.

Also included in the total taxes to be collected by the county tax collector is the assessment for the Santa Clara Valley Water Conservation district which totals $218,308.17. The assessment totals, as supplied to Tax Collector Emerson by G. H. Atkinson, county auditor, reveal that the first installment of taxes which are due Nov. 1, total $2,529,608.93 including $2,396,878.75 for general and special taxes, $23,548.81 for public improvements and $109,181.37 for water, in the cities of San Jose, Sunnyvale, Willow Glen and Morgan Hill.

P. G. & E. BIGGEST TAXPAYER

The county's largest taxpayer is the Pacific Gas & Electric company, whose annual assessment totals more than $234,748, followed by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company with $105,860, and the Southern Pacific company with $100,588.

Included in the 60,000 tax bills to be mailed out shortly is the largest individual assessment of taxes represented by the P. G. & E. tax bill, which totals $83,630.08 and the smallest utility tax bill calling for the payment of 86 cents by the Evans Telephone company which has property valued at $20 in the Harney school district near Mt. Hamilton.

Home-School Club

Cambrian Home and School club met in regular session yesterday, with Mrs. Else Keesling, president, presiding. A program preceded the business meeting.

"The Landing of the Pilgrims," a clever playlet, was very well presented by the students under the direction of Mrs. Mabel Kesling. Vocal selections by Helen Bagoye completed the program.

Among matters taken up were plans for a mass meeting of Cambrian residents to discuss plans for a much needed auditorium. The date of this meeting has been set for Thursday evening, Nov. 12, at the school.

Final arrangements for the turkey-whist party to be given on the 14th were completed.

Mrs. M. Farnham led a discussion, "Why Bright Children Sometimes Fail."

Following the meeting a social hour was enjoyed. Tea was served by the mothers of the seventh and eighth grades.

Photographer Has Fine Exhibit At S. J. Civic Aud

A unique exhibit went on display at the civic auditorium in San Jose yesterday when Roland Rice of Saratoga put on exhibition his famous collection of California wildflower photographs and other nature subjects in natural colors.

The artist's unusual sensitiveness to color and attention to the minutest detail have won for him a reputation for accuracy with scientists and educators as well as commendation from the art world. His pictures and accompanying syllabus are used extensively in science classes and nature study as well as art appreciation classes in the schools. They have been exhibited several times in art galleries of the Bay Cities and elsewhere, and have had much favorable comment from art critics.

VISITS DAUGHTER

Mrs. Tom Shaves is in Newcastle for a week's visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilson, and newly arrived grandson. Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bachman are visiting at Orangeville, and will bring Mrs. Shaves home with them Friday.

tour."

An ex-editor of a newspaper, a member of the Penwomen, and gifted with ability to see and describe the unusual and personal "bits" in a unique way, her listeners enjoyed the next best thing to a real trip.

A group of high school girls, who compose a string ensemble, played several selections during the tea which added to the pleasure of the day. The instruments, including three violins, a cello, bass viol and piano, were played by Emily and Lois Bohnett, Margaret Tanner, Jewel Abbott, Gladys and Edith Hughes.

At the conclusion of the tea, Miss Maurine Thompson of the music department of San Jose State college favored the company with a group of three songs and an encore, "I Am Thy Heart" (Huntington Woodman), "When I Have Sung My Songs to You" (Ernest Charles), "Love Went a Riding" (Frank Bridges), and a modern arrangement of the old song, "Oh, Dear, What Can the Matter Be." Her accompanist was Mrs. George Long.

The young ladies who assisted in serving the dainty tea were Betty Grim, Jeanette Abbott, Marion Jacobson, Geraldine Jurras, Thais Shaves and Mabel Townsend.

The program topic for the next meeting will be "Modern Medical Research," the committee in charge including Mrs. D. H. Cramer, Mrs. G. S. Robson, Mrs. T. A. Cutting and Mrs. F. R. Anderson

Aged Resident Stricken Here

Otto H. Krohn of Sunnyside avenue suffered a stroke Sunday and is in a semi-conscious state at present. A son, George, of Oakland, is here for a few days to help his mother. Other sons, Howard and Franklin, are at San Joaquin valley points awaiting word from home.

Mr. Krohn has been quite feeble for some time and has not been about town due to the difficulty of walking.

Birnbaums Plan Long Rail Trip

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Birnbaum of McCoy avenue, near Campbell, will soon leave by rail on an extended trip, visiting friends and relatives throughout the eastern states. They expect to be gone several months and on their return will visit in southern California.

Their son, Cecil Birnbaum, and family, will occupy the home during their absence.

The Martial Cottle family recently moved from Campbell to San Jose.

Executive Board Of P. T. A. Meets With President

The high school P. T. A. executive board met recently at the home of its president, Mrs. F. O. Bohnett, on North Union avenue, to discuss plans for the new organization. Due to a holiday on the regular meeting date, it was decided to meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the little theater room of the new building, at which time the newly elected officers will be installed by Mrs. L. D. Wool, sixth district president, assisted by Mrs. J. O. Stuhlman.

All members of the community, who are interested in the school, are invited to attend.

RETURNS FROM VISIT

Mrs. Rose Hanger, who had been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Willard Farr at Madera for two weeks, arrived home Monday in time to attend the guest day meeting of the Country Woman's club.

Ray Fish, who has been confined to his home with a severe case of tonsilitis, went to Oakland yesterday to spend a few days visiting his parents and getting a much-needed rest.

Doctor's Formula Relieves Agony of Rheumatism

An Army Doctor Offers His Private Prescription to Mankind—Quickly Relieves Pains of Rheumatism, Neuritis—Reaches Painful Uric Acid Deposits Through the Blood Stream

MANY men and women who read this are desperate with the fear and agony of rheumatic pains. How well you know!—you sufferers—what this scourge of mankind means to its victims! Long, sleepless nights—racked with pain; dull half-alive days—crippled with the horror of neuritic agony—inflamed, aching muscles and joints—every fibre of your body crying for relief and peace; tissues loaded with impure deposits of body poison... In desperation, you have tried salves, liniments, "cure-alls." Disillusioned — discouraged — life has little meaning for you today.

BUT AT LAST THERE IS A GENUINE MESSAGE OF HOPE FOR YOU. Read carefully every word of this astonishing message—for it may be the most important—the most precious thing you have ever read in your entire life:

Doctor's Discovery

In the World War an Army doctor saw the wretched, hopeless misery caused by rheumatic pain. He faced the problem with courage—he devoted himself to it with every ounce of his strength. For years he toiled to help men suffering from rheumatic pain—unable to rest until he could give an answer to the tormented, suffering victims in his care.

At last he found—to his inexpressible joy—a formula that worked! URIC ACID FORMS SHARP, TINY CRYSTALS in the muscles of victims from rheumatic pain. Each time these muscles are moved this foul poisonous substance causes excruciating pain. These painful deposits can be reached—NOT FROM THE OUTSIDE — but through the blood!

He tried the formula on the most stubborn cases of rheumatic pain he could find! To his astonishment, the results were beyond his highest expectations. The pain—the agony—were relieved as if by magic. Today THOUSANDS OF MEN AND WOMEN who suffer from rheumatic pains are finding the same relief.

Thousands suffering from rheumatic pain are guaranteed quick relief with doctor's formula—or money back.

Money-Back Guarantee

The name of this medical formula is Williams R.U.X. Compound. In certain cities of the United States it is already available. One of these cities is Campbell and a limited supply has been placed with Shadle's Drug Store, East Campbell avenue.

This scientific formula — Williams R.U.X. Compound — must not be confused with "pain deadeners" and "cure-alls." There is nothing supernatural about it—its extraordinary properties are based on simple natural laws.

It is offered under this unheard of guarantee: IF YOU ARE NOT RELIEVED OF YOUR RHEUMATIC PAINS IN 10 DAYS—if you are not completely—utterly—satisfied—no matter how many years you have suffered — simply bring the empty bottle back to your druggist and he will hand you over, without question, every cent you paid for it.

REMEMBER—a limited supply of Williams R.U.X. Compound is now on hand at Shadle's Drug Store, East Campbell avenue.
